Sixty-Nine Democrats Will Have a Spokesman on August
15 at Madison Square Garden.

August 14.—A conference of sixty-nine Democrats was held yesterday at Edward M. Shap-er's railway. A general talk about politics was had.

The general sentiment of those present yesterday that it would be wise to nominate a third ticket was asked.

Mr. S. said Mr. Shepard of the honest money league is rapidly perfecting its arrangements for the mass meeting, to be held at Madison Square Garden on Tuesday evening next August 18, at which Burr C. Bain is to deliver the address.

William J. Bryan's speech accepting the nomination. Requests for tickets were received from prominent Democrats and Democratic organizations throughout the country, and it is expected that the meeting will be as its proposed design, one thoroughly representative of the honest money sentiment of the country.

Bryan Still in New York.

New York, August 14.—Mr. and Mrs.
Bryan spent the forenoon disposing of unrelated correspondence. They leave tomorrow for Irvington-on-Hudson where they will remain till Monday the guests John H. Smith Walker, editor of the Cosmopolitan. They will next be entertained at the Red Hook for a week by Mrs.
E. C. Pease, formerly Mrs. Bryan's chamber-mate. Bryan will rest a week to get except for the preparation of his speech. He will probably speak at Buffalo, August 27th and at Lake Erie two days later. Sewall will be home in a day or two. He expects to be entirely satisfied with the results shaping themselves for the Democratic campaign.

Colorado Republican Split.

Denver, Col., August 14.—There are now in Colorado two state committees claiming to represent the Republican party, and two state conventions have been called, one for September 9, in this city, and the other September 30, in Colorado Springs. The latter convention was decided upon at a meeting of the state committee, July 29, at which the followers of Senator Wolcott, who will support Mc-Kinley and Hobart, were in control.
Chairman Hodges and the McKinley members of the committee ignored the call for another meeting, which was signed by a majority of all the members. This meeting was attended by forty-six of the 112 members in person, and twenty-five others were represented by proxies. A new chairman was elected. Resolutions were adopted repudiating the action of the previous meeting and declaring the silver question of paramount importance, endorsing Senator Teller and commanding the action of the Colorado delegation to the national Republican convention.
A state convention was called for September 9, at which it is the intention of the silver Republicans to endorse the Democratic national ticket and make nominations for state officers. The other convention will nominate McKinley and Hobart electors and probably also a full state ticket.

lature will ensure that all our money shall be on equality."

The St. Louis Beaten.

New York, August 14.—The American line and St. Paul arrived from Southern on six days and fifty-seven hours, setting the best previous record that of a sister ship, the St. Louis, which was six days, two hours and twenty-minutes, made last Saturday.

Minister Terrill's Ultimatum.

Copenhagen, August 14.—United States Minister Terrill has demanded the immediate release of six Armenians who are naturalized Americans and are imprisoned at Aleppo.

It is intimated that any man imprisoned of American citizenship will not be tolerated.

Heavy Floods with Loss of Life.

Des Moines, Iowa, August 14.—Three and a half inches of rain fell at Adel last night with heavy hail, some four inches in circumference. Hundreds of English sparrows were killed and windows broken. Heavy rains are also reported at the towns of Perry, Dallas Centre and Wan-

kee. Trees are badly broken and fruit damaged.

Weather This Afternoon and Tomorrow.

Chicago, August 14.—Illinois: Generally fair tonight and Saturday with possibly showers extreme north. Variable winds mostly southerly.

Iowa: Partly cloudy tonight and Saturday with probable local showers; variable winds.

ANXIOUS TO TALK TARIFF. II

Republican Leaders Would Break Away from the Money Question.

Chicago August 14.—Illinois will be the first state to get back to tariff and protection as the paramount issue of this campaign.

For the purpose of taking steps in that direction a meeting of the state central executive committee has been called for Wednesday next at the Great Northern.

Although nobody around state Republican headquarters would discuss the matter, it is understood that the subject of forcing the great McKinley slogan to the front was bronched by the lieutenants of Mark Hanna to the gentlemen in charge of the state Republican campaign.

Captain Tanner, after his return from his trip through the state, reported that the voters in the agricultural districts were generally tired of the currency discussion and anxious to hear and read a little more about the old time Republican topics.

This information has, of course, been brought to Mark Hanna, and the Ohio Warwick is correspondingly happy. It has been one of Mr. Hanna's dreams during the past three or four weeks to break away from the currency discussion and get back to protection. He was glad to hear that Illinois was ready to fall in line with his ideas and he lost no time in putting himself in communication with the state politicians.

A large number of assignments for the state stump speakers had been made ahead, and most of these had been made upon the currency question. It was necessary to decide whether the time was ripe for a general assault along the line of hard times, protection, and prosperity, and if so, to alter the assignment lists for August and the early part of September, and so it was decided to call the executive committee together at once to pass upon the subject.

There will be other matters of moment to engage the attention of the committee when it meets, but this will be the most important.

Bryan said nothing about that Populist nomination in his New York speech. He probably forgot it.

The free silverites may howl about the "crime of '73" as much as they like, the crime of '92 after all is what is troubling the country. That was the crime that took away the jobs of our people.

It is reported that Burke Cockran will review Bryan's acceptance speech at an early day. If this be true the review will be interesting reading for those who are interested in having the vagaries of the free silver campaign exploded and it will be interesting even to Mr. Bryan.

Much has been said about members of congress who are reported as saying they did not know the coinage act of 1873 dropped the silver dollar from coinage. The same might be said of the election of 1892. There are millions of voters who did not suspect that the vote of that year would drop as many dollars from the pockets of the people and the treasury of the United States.

The Mobile (Ala.) Register is becoming alarmed over the danger of losing Alabama in the coming election. It calls attention to the fact that the sound money Democrats in the state who are organizing includes the men of greatest party influence in the state and are dangerous opponents. On the other hand it says the party is made up of many discordant elements that may be hard to hold united.

A silver demagogue is always ready to declare that a fall in prices is due to discrimination against silver. The march of invention and advance in machinery are nothing to him. In former times paper was made of rags, but now a forest can be quickly reduced to a pulp for its manufacture. Yet the demagogue will swear that the "crime of '73" has ruined the paper business. The same is true of hundreds of other things that might be mentioned where the fall in price is due to invention and machinery which lowers the cost of production as in the case the products of iron and of fabrics from wool and fibre.

Eli Perkins' Conversion.
Eli Perkins reports that he has abandoned the Cleveland Democracy and come out for Bryan. The following which includes his reasons is what he has to say about it:

"I have concluded to abandon the Cleveland Democracy," said Eli Perkins, "and come out for William Bryan, the Boy Orator, and Populism."

"What are your reasons?" was asked.

"Because," said Eli, "Willie will do worse than Grover Cleveland talked about the rich grinding the poor, but Willie is an out-and-out anarchist. Cleveland's tariff for revenue turned out to be a tariff for deficit. It has run us in debt about $300,000,000. Now, Bryan is an avowed free trader, and he will increase that Cleveland deficit. He will increase Cleveland's monthly balance of trade against us."

"How will he do it?"

"Why, we have been exporting $45,000,000 worth of silver a year to Europe and taken their gold in return. Now, with free coinage the United States will buy this $45,000,000, worth of silver, coin it into $36,000,000, and hand it back to the mine owners."

"What else will Bryan do?"

"Why, he says his free coinage will double the value of our $600,000,000 worth of corn and cotton, and cause England to buy these things in Russia, Argentina, India and Egypt. That will increase the balance of trade against us $600,000,000 more won't it?"

"But can't foreigners bring their silver over here and buy corn and cotton with it?"

"Well, yes, they can bring Mexican dollars or India silver worth 50 cents on a dollar, have it coined and doubled in value at our mint, and then buy corn and cotton with it. But they won't bring any gold. Then we won't have lots of silver. Won't we?"

"What else will Willie Bryan do?"

"The platform says he'll buy all the railroads—140,000 miles of railroads. He'll pay for them in silver, which will pay 50 per cent profit on to the mine owner. The railroads will cost $10,000,000. We'll have nihilists for conductors, socialists for brakemen, and anarchists for engineers. Coxey will be general manager."

"But will that be legal? What does our platform say?"

"Legal! Why, we will make new laws. Dubs is drafting them now. Then, if the wicked supreme court tries to stop a strike we'll smash that court and put in Popocrat judges. That is all in Willie Bryan's platform. Then we'll have a big discriminating income tax that Cleveland wanted, but which was headed off by the supreme court. We'll tax the rich man's property, and then tax his salary. We'll show you class legislation!"

"But where are we to get our gold from?"

"We won't need any gold. Our statesmen, Peffer, Jerry Simpson, Altgeld, Tillman and Willie Bryan will take care of us. Most is our Mahatma, and Dennis Kearney is our Saint. Gold and the gold bugs must get off the earth. Whoop!"

"Now," said Eli, "I'm going to the Popocrat headquarters to talk with George Francis Train and Ollie Teale about free trade, free silver, and how we'll kill the factories, lower wages, stab the courts, increase the public debt, and bankrupt what is left of the old republic."—Now York Sun.

"Weighed in the balance and found wanting" is a trite expression often used in a comparative sense, and although less than a week among Decatur folk, Dr. Lyman P. Walter of Chicago has reversed the ancient aphorism and been weighed and not found wanting. Following close upon the heels of his successful surgical operations upon the eyes of many Decatur people, comes a ringing testimony from a man well known to all Decatur, in substantiation of the claim made by Dr. Walter that he cures deafness.

When the other states saw this vast accumulation and knew that it must sooner or later come out to the market, the price of corn began to decline till it could be purchased anywhere except in Kansas for fifteen cents to forty-five cents a bushel. All the people now felt rich. They bought many luxuries, and the most of them went in debt. They wondered that they had never before found out that wealth was simply a matter of legislation, and they felt a great pity and contempt for the ignorant and superstitious people of the other states. Then the farmers from other states began hauling their corn to Kansas. Long lines of wagons came winding along every road. Boats floated it down the rivers and railroads rushed it in from every section of the country. It seemed as if the country was all corn and it was all headed for Kansas. The people of Kansas took their medicine, that is, they took the corn and gav'd up their wheat.

The farmers from other states thought the Kansas people were queer, but they kept bringing them their corn. Corn came in and wheat went out. And besides all the Kansas people had gone to raising corn because it was more easily produced than wheat and was to bring just as much in the market as wheat, for the wise men had decreed that it should.

It was not long till Kansas had all of its own and nearly all of its neighbor's corn.

When the other states saw this vast accumulation and knew that it must sooner or later come out to the market, the price of corn began to decline till it could be purchased anywhere except in Kansas for ten cents a bushel. In Kansas the price was still forty-five cents, which was the price of wheat, but there were no buyers. Neither would any one exchange wheat for their corn. When the autumn came the Kansas people did not have any wheat for seed. Then they sent to the neighboring states and implored the farmers to exchange wheat at a parity with corn. But the farmers said:

"We will exchange one bushel of wheat for four and one-half bushels of corn."

"Our law," replied the Kansas people, "puts corn and wheat at a parity. They are equal, for our wise men said they should be." And the farmers replied, "Your wise men are asses; let them eat your corn." So the Kansans went back home, and all their people were in despair.

The more corn they had the less it was worth, and they had nothing but corn. Day by day the times grew harder.

Then the governor again assembled the wise men and said to them, "Most consummate, picturesque and glittering galldarned fools. There is but one bigger fool than yourselves. It is he who now addressess you.

"We thought we could bluff the everlasting law of supply and demand with our statute. We thought we could legislate value into a thing and make our people rich by a law. We thought we were patriotic. We were idiotic. Let us honestly acknowledge our insignificance, repeal our fool law, get back into line with the other states and imagine no more that we are wiser than the whole world. Do this, and we may live long enough to know that the other states have ceased laughing at our folly and that our own state has ceased cursing us for it.

THE WISE MEN OF KANSAS.

Supposed to Be Written in the Year 1850—

A Fable.

"It was near the close of the nineteenth century—everywhere there was great depression. Railroads could not pay dividends, values were shrunken, money was idle, labor unemployed. The well-to-do could not make profits, the poor could not pay their debts, and everybody was gloomy and sad. Each man as he met his neighbor would solemnly say in the language of Hon. James Fadden, 'what tell?' and moodily pass on.

"There then arose the wise men of Kansas. They were mighty in their day; with honeyed words they beguiled the people. They painted in colors of night the depression of labor and the suffering of poverty. They pictured in hues that paled the morning's rosy glow, the delights of luxury and the blessings of wealth.

"Frenzied by the intoxicating dream they exclaimed, wherefore are we not all rich? Go to now! Let us abolish poverty. Let us legislate ourselves into affluence." And the people heard and were smitten with delicious madness.

"Then the governor assembled the wise men in special session and thus addressed:

"Most noble, brave and mighty yeomen, our people groan. The burden is heavy upon them. Early and late they toil and eat the bread of disappointment and bitterness. Make ye laws for their deliverance.

"We are the greatest state in the union.

SOUND ASLEEP A WEEK.

An Indian Fakir Rests Seven Days to Hypnotic Slumber.

To the student of hypnotism and auto-suggestion there is no more interesting study than the sleeping fakirs of India. These men go into a sleep which lasts for many days. For years their ability to do it was doubted by all Europe, where the fact of the strange accomplishment was first made known in a general way.

Even when a number of them visited England and demonstrated their power the British scoffed at them, though some of the best physicians of England vouch for the genuineness of the tests. Since that time, however, the singular ability of the fakirs has been recognized, and they are no longer regarded as impostors.

During the recent Hungarian millennial exposition at Buda-Pesth a fine opportunity was presented to learn as much about the fakirs and their remarkable industry as they will permit anyone not of their own caste to know. The management of the exposition engaged three of them.

The fakirs were in London at the time of their engagement, and arrangements were made with one of them to enter the cataleptic sleep before leaving London, and to be transported in that state to the exposition, where he was to be awakened. He was to remain asleep a week.

The preparations for the long sleep were simple. The fakirs sat down together to a meal which consisted only of a little milk. That they drank in the dining-room of the hotel, in the presence of their attendants and others interested in the performance.

When they had drunk the milk they began what at first seemed conversation in their mother tongue. It soon developed into a monotonous singing. When through they addressed the guests about the table, proposing a toast in good English.

Then the one who was to go to sleep before the journey to Buda-Pesth was begun withdrew from the room and arrayed himself in the garment which he was to wear until he should again awaken. It was a loose, flowing garment of light silk that enveloped his whole form and reached to his feet. When awoke in that he reentered the dining-room and greeted those about him in English.

In a niche in one corner of the room rested a coffin made entirely of glass. The glass was thick and heavy and calculated to withstand the strain of the journey. The top was removed from the coffin, the fakir entered it and stretched himself on the bottom on his back.

One of the attendants wrapped the fakir's legs about with a silk cover. The fakir fixed his gaze on the tip of his nose and continued to gaze in that direction. It made him appear cross-eyed.

At that point one of the other fakirs stepped beside the coffin and laid his hands on the forehead of the one within. The eyes of the fakir in the glass coffin began to stare, and in about two minutes he was in a deep sleep. Then the coffin was closed and prepared for the journey.

The coffin containing the sleeping fakir, with the attendants and all of those interested, journeyed together from London to Buda-Pesth. The fact that fakir was coming was well advertised by the management of the exposition, and consequently great interest was manifested by the public. A crowd saw the coffin taken from the train and followed it to the largest theater in the city, where it had been announced, the fakir would be awakened.

Within a few hours and in the presence of a great throng the coffin was opened. A physician thrust a needle into the arm of the fakir without eliciting any sign of life on the part of the sleeper. Several other tests, not so severe, were made to ascertain if the Hindu were really in a cataleptic state or only shamming. The entire company was agreed that there was no shamming about it.

When the means employed had failed to arouse the sleeper one of the other fakirs approached the glass case and murmured something in his native tongue which sounded like a prayer. He explained subsequently that his murmurings were the suggestions that have to be made for awakening one in the cataleptic condition of his fellow-fakir. As the murmuring continued it was noticed that the chest of the sleeping fakir began to heave. Then he was found to be breathing, though the respiration was so irregular as to be spasmodic. At the same time the arms and legs were still rigid.

The pupils of the eyes could not be seen at that time, they having contracted to a remarkable degree. The murmuring by the other fakir went on and the pupils grew slowly larger. When they had regained their normal size the extreme rigidity had left the body. The sleeper, not yet altogether out of the condition in which he had been for a week, groaned aloud. Then his lower jaw began to move and by degrees he regained consciousness, and after awhile was given a glass of milk.

He complained of pains in the back and asked to be lifted from the glass coffin. His request was complied with, and it made him groan so that he could be heard all over the building. It was fully half an hour later before he was able to lift himself. He told the audience that while asleep he had been in the other world, where he had heard excellent music and felt extremely well.

The name of the fakir who underwent the experiment is Bhim-jen-Pratley. He is 23 years old and is a native of Lahore, Punjab, India. He says that his ability to perform the feat is due entirely to his great effort of will and to auto-suggestion.—N. Y. World.

Don't Procrastinate Your Health Away.

Come to-day. To-morrow you may not have the opportunity. It is a daily occurrence for us to have to refuse a case in the last stage, and tell the patient they waited too long; that their case has passed beyond our skill. There is not a chronic disease that human flesh is heir to that we cannot permanently eradicate from the system if they consult us in time, but there is a stage in every disease when it becomes incurable. Have you reached that stage? If not, do not experiment any longer, but consult us at once.

ITALIAN CHEESEMAKING. Primitive Method of Handling the Ewes' Milk.

Every morning, two hours before dawn in winter and one hour when the days lengthen to spring, it is the duty of the cheesemaker to call the sheepherds by beating a drum. The men who live in the open emerge from their straw boxes at the sound and begin to drive their herds toward the milking shed.

There each flock enters its own pen, these smaller pens communicating with a larger one into which the flocks are admitted in turn; from this central enclosure there are ten or twenty narrow openings which lead into as many short passages. Near the end of each man is seated on his stool with milking pail ready, and as ewe after ewe crowds down the narrow corridor the milkerman throws a two-pronged wooden fork over its neck, thus holding it until it is milked, and so on until the 2,000 or 3,000 ewes have given their tribute of milk.

In some dairies it is the custom to make the ewes pass twice through the milking shed, and it is said that this system has been known to give an increase of production of over 7,000 pounds of cheese.

The flocks are then driven to the grazing ground allotted to each by the head man until the sunset, and the evening milking time comes round again. The milk is meanwhile carried by the milkers to the "vergeria," where it is poured through coarse linen sieves into the cauldron; the milk is first slightly warmed, then lifted from the fire till the rennet is added; after that it is boiled until the curd forms a solid block, which sinks to the bottom of the cauldron, leaving only the milky whey.

The cheesemaker's duty is now to divide this curd among the men, who manipulate and press it with their robust arms until it is dry, when it is formed into round, flat cheese, on which the name of the man who made it is stamped. The remaining whey is boiled a second time, and now it is the duty of a less dignified subordinate to divide large spoonfuls of the congealed mass, now called "ricotta," to the men, not forgetting the absent shepherds. If any remains it is put into small bowl-shaped baskets of woven willow and sold. And in this routine, repeated each morning and evening, the days pass slowly by.—Good Words.

"I'll be hanged if it isn't tough," he replied, when they told him they hadn't had any work for a month. "How would you like some oysters?"

They smacked their lips by way of reply, and he gathered up a crowd of eight, marched them to a fish shop and ordered oyster stews for each one.

"It just does my soul good to see them eat," he said to the owner of the place, as the eight got to work.

"Yes, it's a beautiful sight," was the reply.

"It makes me feel good in here," continued the stranger from Manchester, laying his hand on his heart.

"A good deed brings its own reward," was the soft answer of the shopkeeper, as he calculated his profits.

"I can't rest there—I must do further good," said the big-hearted stranger, and he rushed out and brought in three negroes, a chimney-sweep, two boys and an old woman, and ordered more oysters. The 15 people went for oyster soup in a manner to amaze, and their guardian nudged the shopkeeper in the ribs and said: "See the gentle lamb! Oh, that I could feed the poor of all Lancashire!"

"You are a good man, and Heaven will reward you," replied the proprietor, as he filled the dishes up again.

The stranger said he wanted to bring in just five more, so as to say that he'd been even score, and he rushed out after them, while the shopkeeper sent after more oysters, etc.

The stranger did not return.

The 15 in the shop licked their plates clean and departed in joyful procession, and the last one had passed out before the man who furnished the soup had got through waiting for the return of the big-hearted stranger.

Power of the Arctic Sun.

Sunburn is quite fashionable at summer resorts, but to bear of suffering from heat in the arctic regions seems almost incredible. Lieut. Gilder relates the experience of his party from this cause while one summer in King William's land, and declares that probably nowhere on earth is the traveler more annoyed by acute sunburn than in the frigid zone. The heat of ordinary exercise compels him to throw back the hood of his fur coat, and by thus exposing his head, not only his entire face becomes blistered, but—especially if he is fashionable enough to wear his hair thin on the top of his head—he entire scalp is affected about as severely as if a bucket of scalding water had been poured upon him. At a later period Lieut. Schwatka's entire party, while upon a sledge journey from Marble Island to Camp Daly, were so severely burned that not only their faces, but their entire heads were swollen to nearly twice their natural size. And a fine looking party they were! Some had faces so swollen that their eyes were completely closed on awakening from sleep. When one was fortunate enough to be able to see the others he could not refrain from laughing.—St. Louis Republic.

Free Pills.

Send your address to H. E. Bucklen Co., Chicago, and get a free sample box of Dr. King's New Life Pills. A trial will convince you of their merits. These pills are easy in action and are particularly effective in the cure of Constipation and Sick Headache. For Malaria and Liver troubles they have been proved invaluable. They are guaranteed to be perfectly free from every deleterious substance and to be purely vegetable. They do not weaken by their action, but by giving tons to stomach and bowels greatly invigorate the system. Regular size 25c per box. Sold by West, Druggist.

A little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Honry Hines, of Argenta, had a toe crushed by the sprocket chain of a bicycle and may lose it.

Elli Hill, Lumber City, Pa., writes: "I have been suffering from Piles for twenty-five years and thought my case incurable. DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve was recommended to me as a pile cure so I bought a box and it performed a permanent cure." This is only one of thousands of similar cases. Eczema, sores and skin diseases will yield quickly when it is used. A. J. Stoner & Son and Armstrong Bros.

"Boots" Ludwick, a lad of Champaign, was prostrated by the heat while fishing at Homer. He will recover.

YOU ought to know that when suffering from any kidney trouble that a safe, sure remedy is Foley's Kidney cure. Guaranteed or money refunded. Neisler Drug & Supply Co. and N. L. Krone.
